MILWAUKEE POLICE MAKE ACCIDENT REPORTS AVAILABLE ONLINE

Copies of reportable traffic accident reports are now available online at www.milwaukee.gov/accidentreports. Reports may be viewed and printed free of charge. Available reports include those for all incidents occurring after June 1, 2008, as well as some occurring before that date. The public may search for a report online in the following ways:

- By a case number that was provided by the investigating officer
- By the first and last name of a driver involved in the accident
- By the date the accident occurred

Online public access to reports of a sensitive nature is restricted. These reports include fatalities and matters involving juveniles. Individuals requesting these reports will be directed to the Traffic Records Section.

Additionally, traffic accident data is now available to the public on the City of Milwaukee Web site by using the COMPASS link. The public may view crash data for any area of the city by using this application.

“We hope to continue to find innovative ways to simplify processes that had been confusing or clumsy,” said Milwaukee Police Chief Edward A. Flynn. “The Milwaukee Police Department is pleased to work with the city’s technology experts to offer citizens access to accident reports and crash data for free from their home, place of work, or public library.”

This program was developed in a partnership between the City of Milwaukee Department of Administration – Information and Technology Division and the Milwaukee Police Department.

Questions regarding this program may be directed to the Traffic Records Section at 414-935-7435.
